

“Eclipse Day Token Sale” Rescheduled Due to Unexpected Investor Interest, Pre-Sale Scheduled for Aug. 21st.

Justmake ICO scheduled with the “Great America Eclipse” will be reschedule to Sept. 6th. Pre-Sale will start Aug. 21st at 11:46am EST

GREENVILLE, SC – The “Eclipse Day Token Sale” ICO being conducted by the Justmake Foundation, at www.justmake.org, scheduled to launch on August 21, 2017 at 11:46am EST will officially be rescheduled to September 6, 2017. The Pre-Sale will begin on the 2017 “Great America Eclipse” that will take place on August 21, 2017 in the United States. Due to unexpected accredited investor interest, the Justmake Foundation has decided to delay the ICO until September 6th.

“The excitement has been building for the launch of Justmake ICO with the 2017 Great American Eclipse, but following recent discussions with investors and partners the momentum is only continuing with the future partnerships and the potential of the Justmake Foundation and the Justmake ERC20 Token (JM).” said Joe McGinnis, President of the Justmake Foundation.

The Justmake team has been working non-stop on this project for the past few weeks. When discussing the best time to launch the start of the Token Sale, the Great American Eclipse created the excitement the team felt was fitting for the launch. South Carolina will actually be the last place in the world it will pass through. Since McGinnis lives, works, and was born in the Upstate of South Carolina, the team decide to time the start of the Token Sale with the start of the eclipse. Thus, the name “Eclipse Day Token Sale”.

The Justmake Foundation will announce the details of the pre-sale and the main sale at www.justmake.org. For more information and other press releases, please visit www.justmake.org.
